

ATTENTION MICHIGAN JOURNALISTS:

If this is the year your work makes a difference in your community or in this state, you could be the Michigan Journalist of the Year for 2020.

The Michigan Press Association Foundation is seeking entries for its seventh annual Michigan Journalist of the Year competition. The contest is open to all professional journalists in Michigan. The winner, to be announced at the MPA Annual Convention, will receive a $1,000 award.

The award is an outgrowth of the MPA Foundation's commitment to encourage and support professional journalism across Michigan and recognize work of impact at the community or state level.

The award will honor an individual journalist whose work had a significant impact, locally or statewide. Journalists may submit a body of work or a one-time effort that was published, broadcast, posted or otherwise carried on a Michigan news outlet from Oct. 1, 2019, through Sept. 30, 2020. For this competition, a "body of work" may comprise up to six examples of the journalist's work during the contest period. Each entry must include a cover letter of up to 300 words highlighting the quality and impact of the journalist's work. Entries may include supporting material to show how the journalist's work made a difference in the community or across Michigan.

The deadline for entries is Oct. 30, 2020.

The winner will be announced during the annual Michigan Press Association convention in 2021.

Visit betterbnc.com and click on "Open Call Login" in the right column to create your account.

Entries may come from news outlets, individual journalists or others acting on their behalf.

Entries will be judge by a panel representative of journalism professionals, educators and the MPA Foundation board. Entries will be accepted starting August 1, 2020
